PRESIDENT COOLIDGE talked hard, common sense, as usual, at the advertising men's dinner. Advertising produces increased sales. Cigarette sales make possible mass production. That, in turn, makes possible low prices.

Big business, giant corporations, says the President, are things not to be feared, but to be controlled and made useful to the people. Successful advertising, big production and big sales make high wages possible. They, in turn, are necessary to continued prosperity.

NOT A FEW big men, but millions of average citizens.

WALSH CAUSES PANIC IN REPUBLICAN RANKS

The most desperate political battle in a generation drew one day nearer today as the managers of the Republican campaign in Massachusetts in a condition bordering on panic.

No longer is any attempt being made at headquarters to conceal the fact that the G. O. P. is decidedly apprehensive of the defeat of United States Senator William M. Butler next Tuesday by former United States Senator David I. Walsh.

Word has gone out to the towns and villages that Butler's election depends almost entirely upon the result of the election in the city of Boston.

By WALTER NAUGHTON

Los Angeles, Oct. 29.—Kenneth G. Ormiston's trunk, crammed to capacity with 70 pounds of expensive women's clothing, lingerie and shoes, is on its way to District Attorney Asa Keyes.

A red hair from a woman's head, found in a handkerchief in the trunk, which Keyes will compare under a microscope with Mrs. McPherson's, and a man's handkerchief, the only article belonging to a man in the trunk, are the bits of evidence on which the authorities hope to absolutely clinch their case.

QUEEN TO RIDE A PRONCHO IN DAKOTA RODEO

Queen Marie's Special Train, en route to Winnipeg, Oct. 29 (A.P.)—Queen Marie of Rumania celebrated her first birthday today on her special train, bound from Ottawa for Winnipeg, with only her children, Princess Ileana and Prince Nicholas, at a quiet little party. The train is due in Winnipeg Saturday night.

MESSAGE FROM THE KING

King Ferdinand, in a birthday message to her majesty, definitely set at rest reports that he was suffering from ill health.

"Marie, I send you loving birthday wishes and greetings from the royal palace which is white with snow," the celebration read. "I am feeling so well that I am going downtown on Sunday."

The message also definitely killed rumors that his majesty was not pleased by the queen's reception here by adding:

"We are all extremely interested in the news from your journey and I am utterly pleased at your success. Don't overtax yourself. Fond regards, Ferdinand."

As the train faced through the barren area lying between the Canadian and the Province of Manitoba, the Rumanian queen drew happiness from the approaching fulfillment of the desire to help the farmers of her country by transmitting to them information which she will glean next week in friendly and democratic informal chats with the soil tillers of North Dakota.

She also was happy that she and her children will be able personally to participate on horseback in a real American rodeo.

WILL RIDE IN RODEO.

The visit by Dakota farmers will begin at Fargo early Monday. Two former couples will be the queen's guests until the next stop, Valley City, is reached. There they will go and return to their home, and two other couples will take their place. The change of guests will occur at almost hourly intervals up to Minn. There the royal party will witness a rodeo. The following day at Minn. and Minn. In Montana, catmen will be informal guests of the Rumanian monarch.

11 Death Suspects

Troops, O. Oct. 29—Eleven suspects are under arrest for the "edgier" murder of Miss Lily Crow, 26-year-old school teacher whose mutilated body was found Tuesday morning under school steps.

PARADES 'HER' FINERY FOR JUDGE

Just to tempt a few of his friends who had a weakness for finery, John Mastracci, 23, of Bay road, Revere, donned feminine finery of Parisian mode and fared forth along Revere beach in such a fetching manner that no jaded eye could resist a peek.

It was just a joke, of course, but when John faced Judge Cutler in Chelsea court today as a suspicious person, John was still attired in his sporting togs.

Judge Cutler arose, the better to view the defendant, adjusted his glasses and looked long and earnestly. In spite of the fact that his pipe had gone awry, John was still smiling. He caught Judge Cutler in the extent of clenching the white for collar of his coat tightly around his neck, and sprang slowly toward the judge.

Judge Cutler found the defendant guilty, but placed the case on the John swept out of the court room, the watching of risk and the threat of spectators, and hurried home to a taxi.

He was arrested by Metropolitan police on the Revere Boulevard in company with another man and didn't have time to change his clothes before he was arrested.

Praises Canadian for Aiding Rumania

by Queen of Rumania

Canada has always been dear to my heart, ever since I was a child. Its very name spells elemental force, health, grand endeavor, large sweeping landscapes, great forests, magnificent lakes and rivers, and magic Winters of frozen white.

The name of Canada also evokes visions of green pasture lands with sodded farms and giant orchards of delicious fruit.

If my mind dwelt less upon the large and prosperous towns it was because I have always been a country-loving being whose longing always wandered first to open spaces, prairie, forests, mountains and sea.

It was many, many years after I had formed my first childhood notion of Canada that a Canadian came into my life as a personal friend. That was during the last part of the war. And such a dear friend he was that now whenever I name of Canada is pronounced, I see him standing strong, steadily and true against that gorgeous background of my childhood's home.

Joe Boyle was his name and he was into our lives at a moment of great distress. Betrayed by Bolshevik Russia, Rumania found herself surrounded by enemies.

And suddenly Joe Boyle was there, a savior of strength, a man who was no fair. He was a real son of the race—strong and true.

I cannot here tell all he did and he was a life that Jack Linton, Fleet Marine or Rex Beach would have loved to chronicle. I feel that my pen is much too old to relate such a thrilling story.

One day I did mean to tell what he was, to us and why his memory is so aptly among us. And I shall at last have had an alone story and all the way from Rumania to England to put on his grave. I would not feel as though I had left Canada without first saying my respect for the memory of "Dear Uncle Joe" in my own words. I feel that I have done this, and I feel that I have done this, and I feel that I have done this.

He was a man who was no fair. He was a real son of the race—strong and true.

11 BANDIT DEAD, ONE WOUNDED

Detroit, Oct. 29 (A.P.)—One bank robber was shot to death and another wounded shortly before noon today when a passing patrolman thwarted their attempt to rob the bank of Detroit branch at Chicago and Michigan avenues on the West Side.

Patrolman Frank J. Dornbeck, whose shot dropped the two robbers, was wounded by the holdup men's return fire. Two companions of the bandits escaped.

A fourth victim of the gunfight was John Skimanski, a jeweler. He was running his store window near by when a stray bullet struck him. All the wounded men are expected to recover.

POLICE GUARD GETS DRUNK ON QUEEN'S WINE

Washington, Oct. 29 (A.P.)—Patrolman Lafone Starkweather was 515 poorer today because a glass of wine given him at the Rumanian location while he was assigned to guard Queen Marie at "a pretty wild night down there" on the evening of her arrival here not only made him drunk, but also ill.

The police trial heard said that his previous good record saved him from dismissal after his superior had testified that Starkweather, chosen for the task of guarding the royal Rumanian party because of his known sobriety, fell from grace and was found drunk and in a daze sitting on a box in the location yard that night.

One glass of "good Legation stuff," he said, was responsible.

Starkweather added that "the hospitality of the Legation was too good" for one inexperienced in the handling of alcoholic beverages.

If Starkweather "had been an old timer on the force," Lieutenant Michael Brady testified, "he could have held his liquor and gone about his business, and no one would have known anything about it, but he's had his lesson."

Slays Wounded Bear as Friend Is Being Hugged to Death

Pembroke, Que., Oct. 29 (I.N.S.)—Ladere Turcotte put one shot into the body of a three-year-old, eight foot black bear, but the bear kept right on going.

While Turcotte released, Michael Chartrand, armed with a stick, attempted to shoot the bear.

The bear, enraged, turned and hugged Chartrand, not altogether affectionately.

In a few minutes the bear's hug was released as Turcotte dispatched the animal with a close range shot.

Chartrand needed a new suit and a package of courtplaster.

Raucous Roars

--:- Rout Revere's --:-

Restful Repose

Mrs. Goldie G. of No. 488 Ocean Avenue, Revere, complains she has been robbed of her rest by the roars of the three lions housed nearby.

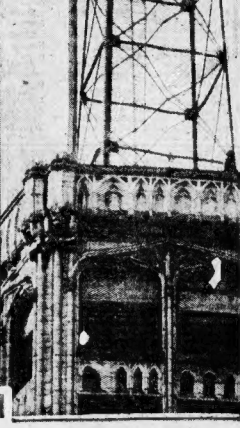

"Teddy Roosevelt" (left) and "Lena" (prominent by her absence from the picture) are only playful, their mistress and trainer, who has had a score of years' experience in handling lions, explains. Miss Castillo is a circus performer in the Summer and during the Winter often appears in vaudeville.

It doesn't make much difference whether the lions roar in play or in rage, according to Charles Barea of Revere, when he is denied rest.

Mrs. Rose Davis of No. 488 Ocean Avenue, Revere, adds that it really doesn't matter how far they go, so long as the distance is great enough.

GALE TOSSED SHIP IN PORT

2 INJURED MEN RUSHED TO HOSPITAL

Battered by mountainous waves churned up by the terrific southern hurricane, the British S.S. Decadon, from the Far East, roared to the pier today, bringing two painfully injured members of her crew, and a tale of heroism and hardship.

An ambulance from the Massachusetts General Hospital, summoned by wireless, met the boat at the pier and hurried the two injured men to the hospital.

They are Chief Engineer James B. McFarlane, 49, and Chief Officer William J. Pearl, 25, who were tossed about like drift wood, when the steamer was caught between two towering waves during the height of the hurricane. Charles Neal, suffered cuts and bruises when McFarlane was hurled on top of him. First aid was given the injured men by Dr. Clifford Lee, the ship's doctor, and The Decadon sailed from Hongkong, Singapore, Port Said, and other Far East ports with a cargo of rubber, hemp and tea.

Yesterday the American and Advertiser gained 186 classified ads over the corresponding day of last year.

Mr. Hays joined with the scientific men in the plans to give the entire world the benefit of medical and surgical pictures.

The board of regents of the college adopted the report of a special committee advocating the use of motion pictures.

Mr. Hays, who spoke at a meeting, expressed his belief that motion pictures could be made a factor in developing a surgeon's skill.

The special committee suggested that a Bureau of Information be established at the headquarters of the College of Surgeons in Chicago, to make available to the medical profession information as to what films are obtainable for both lay and professional uses, where such films can be gotten, and whether they are reliable and satisfactory for teaching purposes. ASK EAGLES SUSPEND OFFICERS

Pittsfield, Oct. 20.—Chief of Police John L. Sullivan of the Pittsfield Police Department today sent a letter to Michael O. Burns, national president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles at Hamilton, O., in which he requested that all officers of the Pittsfield aerie be suspended and also that the charter of the local aerie, which has 500 members, be taken away for one year.

The request is made, according to Chief Sullivan, as a result of an liquor raid last Sunday evening at 628 Essex in the headquarters of the Pittsfield Eagles, in which, police say, 147 bottles of beer, eight gallons of liquor, two slot machines and two dice were seized, as well as $140.41 from the cash register in back of the bar of the aerie.

Chief Sullivan says the raid was conducted on the complaint of mothers, wives and sweethearts of members of Pittsfield aerie.

GIRL BARES 'BOOTLEG' PARTIES

Details of "liquor parties" in which she said "the other man" supplied liquor and openly made love to her mother were given in Middlesex Court today when 18-year-old Gladys Magridge took the stand and testified for her father, Charles A. Magridge, in his suit for divorce.

The "other man" was named in the testimony as "Bernie" Barlett. He was termed a "bootlegger" by the girl.

Frequent automobile trips were made, she testified, when liquor was to be delivered, and she said that on the occasions her mother, Mrs. Edith Magridge of Massachusetts, would accompany "Bernie."

The girl further said that at these "liquor parties" someone would make her smile, but she would not.

The girl also was finally compelled to leave her home by her mother's notions. The mother is contending the suit, charging her husband was craft to her.

$350,000 Rum Cargo, Seized 12 Miles Out, Given Back

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—After being seized for more than two years in government warehouses in Brooklyn, rum cargo of white-bay, valued at $350,000, was today ordered sent back to the port of shipment, St. Pierre, Martinique.

Federal Judge Winslow ordered the return of the rum to its owner because it had been seized from a rum runner outside the revenue-limit on the assumption that a sale had been made 12 miles off shore.

DEATH PUTS OFF GRADY WILL CONTEST

RICH WEDDING GIFTS SENT TO LEOPOLD

Brussels, Belgium, Oct. 29 (AP).—Crown Prince Leopold, heir-apparent to the Belgian throne, was en route for Sweden today for Stockholm to take as his bride Princess Astrid, niece of the King of Sweden.

The civil ceremony will be held there next Thursday, followed on November 19 by two religious ceremonies, Protestant and Catholic.

The departure was the occasion for a spontaneous expression of the popular affection.

The crowd learned, amid a shower of flowers, that the subscription for the national wedding gift had given well over 200,000 francs, while the great number of the royal presents were gifts of every description.

One highly prized by the Prince is an ornamental column cleverly worked from two copper shells placed upon a Plancher battlefield. It is the gift of a young soldier, a son of France.

Another, from the diplomatic corps, is a little set of iron pieces, in massive silver. The International Chamber of Commerce gave a fan of rare Brussels lace.

Colds

One of the world's largest laboratories perfected a way to end colds. It combined a number of modern discoveries. That way proved itself so efficient, so quick, so complete that we paid $1,000,000 for it. That way is called HILL'S. It checks a cold in 24 hours. It ends the fever, stops the headache, it opens the bowels, tones the entire system. And without any effect. As a result, one usually feels better than before the cold began.

Millions now employ it. When they learn its results they keep it ever on hand. Then a cold rarely gets started. Here is all-in-all for colds—the best modern science has to offer. It will change tomorrow if you take it now. Go start it without delay.

'COSMIC RAY' DISCOVERY IS CONFIRMED

Los Angeles, Oct. 28 (Universal)—It was a year ago next month that Dr. Robert A. Millikan, head of the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena, announced the discovery of the "Cosmic Ray." He and Dr. Harvey Cameron, the latter having worked with Dr. Millikan on the preliminary investigations of the new ray, have returned from South America, where in lakes at enormous Andean heights, for their experiments confirmed all that had been announced about this ray. The Millikan ray offers more to the speculative mind than any heretofore known scientific fact. For it seems to establish that power, energy and motion exist independent of the sun or any extraneous creative form. These rays, Dr. Millikan has shown come from every direction in a constant bombardment of the earth; they come from North, South, East and West they come, bombarding readily through the world's densest armor of atmosphere. They are the shortest of rays, but they penetrate more than any other ray; six feet of lead are not stopping to them nor many feet of water. "I may say that what we have accomplished does confirm the existence of the cosmic ray, confirms that it is from every direction, and that it is the shortest of rays," said Dr. Millikan.

FINDS THROAT OF MRS. MILLS SLASHED

Theory is based on the fact that Mrs. Mills' upper teeth were knocked out. The autopsy also showed, it is said, that the chin singer was shot three times as she lay prone on the ground.

From this evidence the investigators have formed the following picture of the death murder:

STUCK IN THE MOUTH
 Mrs. Mills was attacked first by the slayers. As Dr. Hall rushed to her assistance she was struck in the mouth by some sharp instrument with such force that she fell to the ground unconscious. Then, as she lay there, she was shot three times in cold blood, after which her throat was cut, probably by the same instrument with which she had been struck.

Just what instrument was used and the prosecution either does not know or is not telling. But it was found that, in view of the new theory, much importance is attached to the disappearance of a bulge above from the throat.

First steps in selecting a jury to try Mrs. Frances S. Hall and her two brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, began here today with senior Stimpson, special prosecutor, demanding that at least one woman be among the twelve jurors finally chosen.

The struck jury panel from which will be drawn the twelfth jury will decide the case today was narrowed down to thirty-six names. From this number the final twelve will be chosen Wednesday. Twenty-four names were stricken off today.

Determination of whether the tongue of Mrs. Eleanor Mills was cut out after she was slain with the knife, Edward Wheeler Hall, on edge the situation of investigation today.

Mrs. Mills' body was removed yesterday a second time from its four-year-old grave that a third autopsy might be performed to gather evidence for the trial next week of the slain clergyman's widow and her two brothers, who are accused of the double murder.

Dr. Otto H. Schultz of the New York Medical College, who discovered at the second autopsy four years ago that the slain singer's throat had been slashed, recently gave Mrs. Mills' body to the State. The third autopsy was ordered by the State to begin if this theory, Dr. Schultz has charges of it also.

Dr. Hall's 'Love Diary' Breathes Yearnings

This is the fifth installment of the diary written by Mrs. Charlotte Mills and the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall.

Separated from his beloved one, on vacation with Mrs. Hall in Seal Harbor, Me., Dr. Hall could not keep up his daily letters to Mrs. Mills. But he had a "love diary" with his yearnings for her—"All the universe of love crushed into my love for you."

He whistled "Where Are You Now?" and "Romance of Your Eyes" as he climbed the mountain tops. He read "The Living Sacrifice" on his return. All was inspired by his tragic love for the pretty wife of his church sexton. The first leaves of the "Love Diary" follow:

Thursday, Aug. 10.

"Dear darling heart of mine. I know there must be a letter for me at Seal Harbor today. Despite these days and weeks I am away from you so long I don't know myself I want to fondle and caress you. Oh, so much I want to hold you close in my arms and know that you are safe and happy and warm."

"Dearest, we were made for each other's arms. That is our heaven. Our home, and every moment away from there is a moment away from home."

"Good-night, dear, deeply beloved. All the universe of love crushed into my love for you."

Friday, August 12.

"What a contrast to yesterday my dear. Last night we had a thunder shower and that changed the atmosphere. Fog set in this morning. It was so thick I gave up thought of going to Seal Harbor for mail, so went off cards, post cards and waited for the afternoon. Then the fog was worse than ever, so I shall have to wait until tomorrow, and I KNOW those letters are there."

LOVE HAS GROWN
 "Blessed heart, I know that when I get back to N. E. I shall not be to be out of your sight for one moment. How wonderful our love is. How it has grown even in these three weeks. I feel that it is richer, deeper, more perfect than ever. The truth of the 'Living Sacrifice' is my life and soul."

Saturday, August 13.

"Dear heart, all these past few close letters that I received at Seal Harbor this morning. Dearest, your letters have been marvelous, so true, calm, strong, the very reflection of yourself, and I can feel you through every one of them."

 "Tuesday, August 9.
 "Fog and rain in the morning, but I went to Seal Harbor anyway. A blessed letter from you, darling. How I KNOW how much I love you. How I love you, I want to tell you."

LOVES THE POEMS.
 "Oh! I think you know, and it gives me joy to write. Then, on setting back to bed, your dear Sunday letter was here. And the claspings, I love the poems in it. You shall have all the poems I can get for you."

 "Wednesday, Aug. 10.
 "Twining, such a day as this. 'Wonderfully clear and bright, such a few days are up here. After breakfast we found a lot of air and climbed Seal Harbor Mt. 150 ft. 'Oh, how I love being here, you. You have been with me in EVERY STEP of the way. We took lunch and didn't get back here until 4 pm. Neither time so went to bed early. A wonderful night, too, moon and stars wonderfully bright and a perfect calm and stillness. As wonderful as any day I have ever had. Goodnight, beloved."

"Note: Dr. Hall never shared his letters to Mrs. Mills with his own mother or his wife. When asked of all they were with the initials 'D. H. L.' to signify the German 'True Love'—'True Love'."

PLENTY OF TIME FOR MAN TO GROW, SAYS LODGE

London, Oct. 29 (A.P.)—Sir Oliver Lodge, in a contribution to a symposium on "The Mystery of the Unseen" appearing in the Daily Express, gives a cautious non-committal answer to the question whether life exists on Mars and other planets. While declaring that solution of the question is beyond the present day, Sir Oliver says:

"In our experience, life seems to take advantage of every opportunity offered it for attaining matter. There seems to be a real struggle towards the inception and maintenance of material existence, and this probably represents a widespread, all-embracing truth extending beyond this planet through a material universe."

Dealing with the word, the author draws from the long continued preponderance of the solar system "an encouragement to humanity in its efforts to the scientific certainty that, unless the utterly unknown happens, the era of human progress has only recently begun."

"Two things, however, are wise enough to take into account of their opportunities to increase their powers over nature," Sir Oliver adds, "there is no doubt that the things mankind may be trusted to reach the highest development."

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Big Theatrical Benefit to Be Held to Assist Disabled Veterans

FOR THE SIXTH CONSECUTIVE

Autumn, a huge theatrical benefit for disabled veterans makes its appearance on the calendar. It has been, other years, and will be again, an all-star show from reigning stage successes. It benefits disabled veterans in local hospitals, has the smartest of patronage, and is set for November 23.

MRS. L. TUCKER BURR, JR.
A prominent member of the set which follows the hounds over Norfolk hill and meadow these October days.

AS SHE DID last year, Mrs. Pike Warren leads the set arranging the affair which, under the aegis of "Disabled Veterans' Hospital Service, Inc.," seeks to duplicate the large financial success of years ago, when the organization was known as the Hospital Committee of Community Service.

MISS ELEANORA SNELLING of Dedham, Henry Parkman, Jr., Harcourt Amory, Hugh Bancroft, Mrs. Marshall Bradford, Mr. and Mrs. Donald T. Lyman, Mrs. Walter Hines Page and Dr. Frederic J. Cotton are all vitally interested in this good work, and their ardent and indefatigable leader is Mrs. Robert Lincoln O'Brien.

TWO HOSTESSES and two buds are principals in today's luncheon having to do with the debutante circle. Madeline Anne C. Hopkins of Marlborough street and W. Irving Bulfinch of Beacon street are hostesses.

MISS LOUISA HOPKINS and Miss Charlotte Bulfinch are the two debutantes for whom their mothers entertain, and the guests list includes a goodly number of the more than a hundred debutantes who make their social debut during the present season.

THE PLEASANT quarters of the Welfare Committee at the Children's Hospital will bloom with autumn flowers and twinkling with gossip chatter on Monday afternoon when the Welfare group is entertained at one of their afternoons.

MRS. ROBERT C. MORSE, Mrs. M. H. Parker Worthington and William E. Land are hostesses and Madeline Frederick S. Mead and Mrs. George Paulby Orin will preside behind the tea tray.

ITS all in the way of a special celebration and to honor Mrs. Maurice J. Curran and the band of women who led to such an enormous success recently in the matter of money getting for the hospital.

A SMART AND socially important company will gather in Emmanuel Church at high noon tomorrow for the single town wedding reception. October's last Saturday, Miss Harriet Hayden, daughter of the Charles Haydens, is the bride and Edwin Newton Old, Jr., the bridegroom.

BELONGING to the Vincent Club and the Junior League (those merry circles of Fashionland's femininity in Boston) and having shared bellefête with the pretty and lively set that came out some three years ago, Mrs. Hayden's nuptial take a foremost place in the romance chronicle.

MANY GUESTS have been bid den to the ceremonial but the reception and wedding breakfast immediately following, at the Commonwealth avenue home of the Haydens, is a small affair.

Mrs. Henry Ware Putnam, who closed her Summer and Autumn stay in the last named city and has come back to her town establishment for the Winter.

SALLIES' DOUGHNUTS RECALL DAYS OF '18

The days of 1917-18 and the part the Salvation Army girls played in France are recalled to Boston by a float that is being used in connection with the 114,000 general maintenance appeal the "Sallies" are now conducting.

The doughnut plays an important part in the exhibit for already this week more than 2,800 doughnuts have been given away from the float.

The float represents a doughnut in France, with two owners "Sallies," in war-time uniforms, trying doughnuts.

The "Sallies" on the float are honest-to-goodness overseas veterans. They are Ensign Myrtle Turkelington, from the general headquarters at East Brookline street and Captain Stella Young, of the Northern New England division of the Salvation Army.

The girls served together for eighteen months in France, more than half of which time was spent under fire near the front. The girls were attached to the Twenty-sixth division while it was at the front and are hailed as "doughnuts" by thousands of VD veterans.

Tells Republicans to Aid G. O. P. by Voting for 'Wets'

Massachusetts Republicans who vote for Walsh and Fuller next Tuesday will be doing the Grand Old Party a great service, says Charles N. Hachens, president of the Massachusetts Constitutional Liberty League, who describes the situation as follows:

"It has become more and more apparent during the past year that the Republican party has been forced into an unwilling alliance with the anti-Union League. The day when it is proven that such an alliance is a losing one will be the day when this alliance will cease to exist and the Republican party will then be free to return to the policy of modification."

power crediting Senator Butler with working to keep the mills open.

"This is another evidence of how far no moment will go to do the job of the voters, who have chosen again and again as they have chosen Butler for doing the 'real issue' of the campaign," said Butler, former Assistant United States District Attorney John H. Hachens, who addressed the crowd in the vast audience at the Elm Park rally.

Talking on the crowd, Walsh said he had been getting into the "state of mind" of the voters, who were not only voting for him, but also for the "real issue" of the campaign, which was the "real issue" of the campaign, which was the "real issue" of the campaign.

Walsh took Senator Butler, the Republican opponent, to task for his "policy" of "modification," which he made in his "policy" of "modification," which he made in his "policy" of "modification," which he made in his "policy" of "modification."

J. P. COLLINS
BOSTON'S PIANO KING

WM. A. GASTON

WM. M. BUTLER

Choosing your Governor and United States Senator is like choosing your piano -- Look For The Best Value.

J. P. COLLINS
J. P. Collins is a candidate only for your good will. He makes no promises he cannot keep and no promises he does not keep. Good will is his chief asset in business. It has been gained by fair treatment of his customers. Today he is selling pianos to the sons and daughters of men and women to whom he sold 25 years ago. Could the greatest political orators speak more eloquently than does this fact?

GOV. ALVAN T. FULLER
Alvan T. Fuller has been Governor of Massachusetts for two years. Every office he has held up to now has been won over the opposition of his own party machine. Now he is running with the machine and many of his friends are afraid his luck will change.

DAVID I. WALSH
DAVID I. WALSH, EX-UNITED STATES SENATOR, says the way to make the country rich and prosperous is to make business good. Walsh was a good friend of the working man and of the small business man when he was Governor and Senator; and he was fair to big business. He had no interests to serve except those of the people of Massachusetts. The man who becomes the more likely it is that some of the prosperity will come down through to the little fellow. There may be something to that.

J. P. Collins isn't asking for your vote. He asks only for your business. Once a customer, always a customer. He offers you the largest stock of pianos in Boston to choose from—old and new. You can find a piano at any price you want to pay. The terms are fixed to suit your convenience. If you want to know about Collins method of dealing with his customers ask any customer of his.

HAVE hot nourishing breakfasts. Stop makeshift breakfasts simply to save time. Quick Quaker is faster than plain toast.

Hot, savory, nutritious; it's ready before the coffee.

Supplies the excellently "balanced" food ration of protein, carbohydrates and vitamins—besides the "bulk" to make laxatives less often needed—that doctors and authorities now so widely urge.

Start every day that way. Feel better, look better, be stronger and on your toes every minute. Ask your doctor.

Summer Bachelors

A Frankly Revealing Serial of Boston Night Life

By WARNER FABIAN

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Derry Thomas, an attractive business girl, white shopping permits Tony Lander, a young man whose name she has overheard but whom she does not know, pay for a dress fabric she cannot afford. He leaves her without learning her name. Mr. Lander, her employer, has her promise not to marry for three years. Derry goes out with Beverly Greenway. He admits he is a Summer bachelor. They meet Preston Smith, a cotton politician, at a North Shore club, and then go to a Boston night club.

CHAPTER VII

At the end of the month she had met there a number of attractive men; had danced with them, smiled at them, dismissed them from thought, and with each one had felt more and more assured of her power to attract and allure by the mere magnetism of her own brilliant attentiveness to life and joy. One whom she did not forget, after her one dance with him, she had not identified by name until, the following morning, a great box of roses bearing a handwritten card (she was appreciative of the significance of that letter) "R. D. Otley," recalled the level gray eyes, the effect of self-conscious poise and power with a curious suggestion of a capacity for waiting, the quiet, smooth intelligence and—well, watchfulness of the man. Interested, she acknowledged the flowers, hinting at surprise that he should have known where she lived. He replied also by note, that there were "ways of managing these things where the lucrative exists" and enclosed machine tickets to the most popular of the season's revues, hoping that she might care to use them.

She took her sister. Otley himself did not put in an appearance. But there were more flowers on alternate days. Derry began to feel the sensation of being stalked by a master tactician in the hunting game.

She liked it. She knew that it was wrong to like it, and like it all the more. This was quite a different matter from liking the man she did not know whether she liked him or not.

His attack developed, not in any unforeseen form, but as an invitation for dinner at the Hawthorne. She should accept? Why she should accept? Why she should feel any hesitancy she hasn't known yet something in Otley's quiet personality inspired uncertainty. She would have liked to have consulted someone who knew him, but she had not time to do so. "Not too late," he would have said. "Not too late," he would have said. "Not too late," he would have said.

Party Skit on WNAC Tonight

All who are planning to have their own parties Saturday night will be interested in the "Mr. and Mrs. Radio" skit to be broadcast tonight at 8:30 p. m. from station WNAC, The Shepherd Store.

There will be many worthwhile hints on how not to do it, if you want to insure the success of your party. During the past few weeks the popular radio couple have been leading a strenuous life, but they plan to relax to the point of "Mr. and Mrs. Radio" on Saturday night.

Of course, "Mr. and Mrs. Radio" are planning a new quiet party, but if previous experience has any indication, it is safe to predict that when the guests are in the room at midnight, there will be a "Mr. and Mrs. Radio" skit to be broadcast. The skit will be a "Mr. and Mrs. Radio" skit to be broadcast. The skit will be a "Mr. and Mrs. Radio" skit to be broadcast.

MATERIALS FOR RADIO IMPORTED

While the smaller factory built sets do not differ greatly in appearance from the better built home made sets, the expensive radio sets made in a factory are totally different in appearance and construction. The reason for this is the little known secret of factory built sets are gained from a vast and a radio factory in Cambridge.

In making loud speakers and cones, the parts are assembled in the parts room where the various units of a radio are made before assembly.

The larger paper cones are made of a thin material composed of linen fiber imported from Europe. This is cut to the proper size and then dipped into a stiffening, water proof liquid.

As is well known, the radio set consists of a coil in the cone. This coil causes the cone to move back and forth. Hundreds of feet of enameled wire are wound on a small wooden form and they placed over a permanent magnet of pure Norse iron.

Each magnet is made in the shape of a horse shoe and then carefully magnetized for a certain number of minutes with a large direct current coil of wire.

In another division of the factory, the frequency transformers are made. An auto transformer and much material must be used to make a good transformer. That is one reason why expensive transformers are made. This iron shunting was altered fifteen times.

Alloys of wire are used for more coils and it is very fine wire; more like a human hair.

LAWRENCE 5TH IN RANKING OF TEAMS

By EDWIN DUNDON

Football is full of that sort of thing. The coaches, working with the probable players, put over many a wild idea. For example, Lawrence, who coaches the Illinois football team, is one of sport's real psychologists. He knows the advantage of the mental edge as well as the next one. It was for that reason alone that he made his more or less ridiculous scream against the pads worn by the University of Pennsylvania. Bob's team is playing the Quakers tomorrow, and unless the successors of Red Grange find a little bit of extra fight, they will probably be licked. They were beaten by Michigan, and so taught that they didn't have the best team in the world. Bob had to find something to get his young athletes steamed up. So he picked on the pads. He has undoubtedly sold his idea to the youths who are unwilling to do and die for dear old Illinois. They think, after hearing Robert orate that the Penn players will be coming after them armed with hatchets and axes. The Illinois, with the light of a great cause blazing in their hearts, will be just a bit super crazy to upset Penn and show the invaders that a few extra pads mean nothing in the life of tough western athletes.

Bob's team is playing the Quakers tomorrow, and unless the successors of Red Grange find a little bit of extra fight, they will probably be licked. They were beaten by Michigan, and so taught that they didn't have the best team in the world. Bob had to find something to get his young athletes steamed up. So he picked on the pads. He has undoubtedly sold his idea to the youths who are unwilling to do and die for dear old Illinois. They think, after hearing Robert orate that the Penn players will be coming after them armed with hatchets and axes. The Illinois, with the light of a great cause blazing in their hearts, will be just a bit super crazy to upset Penn and show the invaders that a few extra pads mean nothing in the life of tough western athletes.

"The mood was ended. I ought to be making some move to go," she thought, and dashed her fingers in the cool, moist ground under her bowl.

"Don't start to tremble. What was it?"

"It was nothing," she said. "I was just a pleasant nervous habit of mine to do when I'm a little chilly early," her voice sang calmly.

His strong hand closed lightly over her fingers. He stirred restlessly. "Come—let's go. I'm not staying here. Come—let's hide away. You want to ride again, Rosemary?"

"Yes, I wish," she said in the subdued, throaty voice of a woman who has been waiting so long for something to happen.

They left the sleeve grill and went smiling into the dark to gather up their things.

He leaned on his arm. Her head was aching a little, and she felt a little dizzy. "I don't know what the ground wants from under her feet."

The night air was cool and brisk. She drank it in thirstily. "Mavis is waiting for me. I must go. I'm as she stumbled diving into the sea."

"Nonsense! You only had two. Nobody got set up on two cockles."

"But if they were your first two?"

"I'm sure I never had any. I'm quite sure that two solid little things I have had since my first. They were as good as the first. They were up over hills, hills, turned corners, and they were as good as the first. They were in salt, running speed. They were going so fast—"

FAMOUS MOTHERS

THE influence which Walt Whitman's mother, Louisa Valer, exerted upon the genius of the man is a subject that intrigues the interest of the student of human nature. She was endowed with a natural gift for description and her words fell with weight, although she was uneducated. And even in the face of these handicaps, her ability was omnipresent in all that she wrote. She is said to have been well-read, handsome, serious and practical, these characteristics and traits being blended with intense and resilient nature. It is easy to see why Walt Whitman got his inspiration from the university with which his work went. He was the God of the Universe as Zola.

Mrs. Higgins was putting dinner on when she saw a tramp come into her yard. At first she was alarmed, for he was a rough looking fellow. But, the yellow collar, sprang from beneath the porch and flew towards the dog and he stopped short in his barking. The plume of his tail dropped, and he left his belligerent stand within a few feet of the stranger. Then he moved slowly up the walk carrying a sackward glance at the stranger's figure. "Don't be afraid of him," Mrs. Higgins called to the tramp, "he won't bother you none now, unless I give him leave to come on up." The fellow came. He was very dirty, his hair turned, fore grumpy. His clothes were worn and old, and hardly anything remained of his shirt. But the old woman saw that he was younger than he had seemed at first. He looked, barely more than a boy. His face softened for an instant, then a steady gleam came into her eyes and she compressed her lips.

"I suppose you'd like something to eat, but you don't care to do any work for it, eh?" The boy's face was sullen. "I work," he said. "Come into the kitchen," commanded Mrs. Higgins. "I'll give you some food." She motioned him to a chair at the kitchen table, and laid a meal before him. She eyed him narrowly as he ate, anxiously. When he had finished he arose and announced: "I'll be kind now to do anything I can." "I couldn't offer to work before I ate," she told her astonished wife. "I was so weak—hadn't eaten since yesterday, and not much then. I'll now work I'm better. Where's the wood pile?" "Well," said Mrs. Higgins, half her wrinkled hand commanding. "I don't want you to do nothing for me, young fellow. I've fed you, maybe a foolish reason but a reason just the same. Come with me there's something I want to show you." He followed her into a hallway that led to a front parlor. It was a long, darkened room, from which issued a misty smell. Mrs. Higgins pointed above a tall mantle shelf on which old brass candlestick, a queer assortment of glass knick-knack, and a wretched clock reposed. The boy's eyes followed her gesture until he saw a framed picture of a lad about twelve years old. It was a crayon drawing and the boy was clad in his Sunday best and appeared extremely uncomfortable, too, that he had been riding a freight. "The old lady finished her story as calmly as she had begun it. Then she sat in silence, her hands folded in her lap, her eyes fixed upon the picture." "You took me in and fed me," the youth finally said. "You thought of him—looked at him—told me I was a good boy. I'm not a good boy. The long long days and nights she has worried. The hopes of her life, that have broken in you. I'm doing it for her—not asking you to go home now, but remember what I've said. Think of me and my boy together by the roadside that night."

DAILY SHORT STORY

THE GHOST BOY

By Louis P. Armstrong

He glanced across at her bewilderment. "What on earth does this mean, Mother?" "I've told, David," said Mrs. Higgins told him in a sweet calm voice. "I showed the young fellow that picture of the boy I bought at the auction in town last fall. That boy in the picture has a nice face, kind. He's not the sort who would ever treat his folks shameful, David. And I've come to have a right motherly feeling for him. I think of him as really being ours—our son, David. Even though he's nothing but a picture-boy." The old man smiled, reached across the table to clasp her work-worn hands. "It's a pity," he said, "that we never had no children, Mother. He had always called her 'mother' though the term was misnomer." Mrs. Higgins nodded mutely, her wrinkled chin trembled slightly, then smiled. "But, after all," she murmured softly, "I'm Tim. David. The little bit of my dream child did, baby. I'm so glad the tramp-like boy is to be the tramp-like boy."

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By Helen Rowland

N EVER keep a friend, a husband, or a mirror around, that gives you an inferiority complex!

"Gentlemen" aren't the only ones who prefer blondes. There is something about a shock of yellow hair on a man's head, that makes a woman years to run her fingers through it, whether there's anything inside to bend or not.

To some men, the most fascinating game in life is to hide the flame in a woman's heart and watch the loveliest sparks up into her eyes—and then the game is over!

A woman gets something out of watching a romantic movie-play, and a man gets something out of watching a prize fight, which seems to take care of all their complex and submerged desires.

Paying alimony is about as thrilling as the average man can get. The back installment on a suit of clothes that he has already given to the elevator boy.

A doctor can always tell just how ill a woman is, by the way her hair and her negligie are arranged.

At twenty, love may keep a man awake—but, after forty, the only way any woman can flatter herself that she has made him love his beauty sleep, is by feeding him something that disagrees with him.

When a man shows his wife a lot of devotion in public, remember,

TRYING THE

David I. Walsh, Faithful Servant of the People

By electing David I. Walsh to the United States Senate next Tuesday the people of Massachusetts will testify anew that they are neither ungrateful nor reactionary.

The Boston Evening American asks for support for Senator Walsh, not only on his general record, but specifically because of his fight and vote against the League of Nations when he was in the Senate of the United States. And also because of his opposition to the trap-door of the League of Nations—the so-called World Court.

Mr. Walsh has been a vigorous opponent of all efforts to inveigle our country into international alliances of every character. And particularly those fostered by the money of international bankers for their private gain.

As we near the end of a campaign which has resembled in some respects a race between Man o' War and a covered wagon, it appears that the only question which remains to be answered is the size of the Walsh majority.

HOW COULD IT BE OTHERWISE, IN A STATE WHICH HAS NOT FORGOTTEN THE RECORD MADE BY THIS FAVORITE SON BOTH AS GOVERNOR AND SENATOR?

As Governor, if we may be permitted here a somewhat hurried review of that great record, of achievement on behalf of the people, David I. Walsh:

Inaugurated the Massachusetts system of Free Educational Correspondence Schools, one of the most beneficial State activities undertaken by any Governor since public schools were established.

Enlarged the benefits of the Workman's Compensation Law.

VETOED A MILK BILL WHICH WOULD HAVE RUINED THE DAIRY INDUSTRY OF THE STATE.

Established the best Health Department in the country.

Placed hydro-electric corporations under public regulation and supervision for the first time.

SECURED THE EXTENSION OF SAVINGS BANK LIFE INSURANCE, PERMITTING CITIZENS TO HAVE THEIR LIVES INSURED AT A COST OF 35 PER CENT. BELOW THE COST OF SIMILAR INSURANCE WITH PRIVATE COMPANIES.

Recommended absentee voting by mail. Recommended the adoption of the Initiative and Referendum.

INCREASED BY $423,093 YEARLY THE AMOUNT PAID TO THE WIDOWS AND CHILDREN OF MEN KILLED AT THEIR WORK.

Eight years ago a grateful State rewarded these and other efforts in the public interest by electing Governor Walsh to the Senate of the United States. If there is any citizen of Massachusetts who is not proud of his record in that august body, it is because the dissenter is either a hide-bound partisan, voting for a political label regardless of the stature of the man behind it, or else, for reasons of his own, allied with the privilege-seekers, the exploiters and the other reactionaries, who, for reasons of THEIR own, do not want the Walsh type of Senator.

As a United States Senator, from 1919 to 1925, David I. Walsh:

TOOK UP THE CAUSE OF THE VET-

ERANS OF THE WORLD WAR, SECURED TWO INVESTIGATIONS OF CRUEL NEGLECT AND INADEQUATE HOSPITAL FACILITIES, EXPOSED GRAFT AND CORRUPTION IN THE VETERANS' BUREAU, AND SERVED ON EVERY COMMITTEE WHICH CONSIDERED MATTERS AFFECTING THE FORMER SERVICE MAN.

Favored the Soldiers' Bonus; spoke for it throughout the country.

Introduced bills for the extension of the War Risk Insurance Act and the United States Veteran Act.

URGED GOVERNMENT REGULATION OF ANTHRACITE COAL WITH AUTHORITY VESTED IN THE GOVERNMENT TO OPERATE THE MINES IN TIME OF PUBLIC EMERGENCY.

Fought the duty of 31 cents per pound on raw wool, a tax upon clothing.

Fought the duty of 2 cents per pound on sugar.

CHAMPIONED A LIVING WAGE FOR POSTAL EMPLOYEES.

On behalf of the consumer, the shoe manufacturer and the shoe worker, opposed the tariff upon Hides and Leather as proposed by the Senate Finance Committee.

DAVID I. WALSH WAS THE MOST PROGRESSIVE SENATOR NEW ENGLAND HAS SENT TO WASHINGTON.

And David I. Walsh is AN AMERICAN OF AMERICANS, as was shown bravely and consistently by his opposition in and out of season to the League of Nations, and as has been shown with equal steadfastness by his opposition to ALL such foreign entanglements as the League's "World Court."

His triumphant election on Tuesday next will tremendously hearten the friends of popular government, of public service untrammelled, of progressive and democratic ideals.

A Real American Decision

Judge Rules, in Effect, That Prohibition Enforcement Officers Have No Right to Invade Private Premises Without a Search Warrant

Federal Judge Frank H. Kerrigan of San Francisco has earned the gratitude of all Americans who value their heritage of civil liberties. He has decided, in effect, that prohibition enforcement officers have no right to invade private premises without a search warrant.

In the case which brought this upstanding pronouncement the home of one Milton Swan of San Francisco had been raided by an enforcement squad, which did not have a search warrant, but proceeded upon suspicion. Judge Kerrigan held that they were outside their rights, no matter how convincing the circumstances which aroused their suspicions. In his decision appears this:

"Only casual reference is necessary to show that indiscriminate breaking and entering under the revenue laws were abuses intended by the framers of our Constitution to be denied."

That is good Anglo-Saxon gospel, the kind that came down to us from the days of Magna Charta and the Bill of Rights, the kind that is incorporated in the Constitution of the United States. In the age-old contest of liberty lovers against tyranny and intolerance, great as pity, no more precious right was won than that expressed in the words, "A man's home is his castle."

This, unfortunately, has often been forgotten by officers and those responsible for the acts of officers in their zeal to ferret out and punish offenses of a certain class. In some cases—still more unfortunately—certain of the courts have reflected this subversive view. Particularly has this species of abuse been given official sanction in a number of jurisdictions since Congress adopted the Volstead act.

Judge Kerrigan, sitting in one of the nation's highest courts, demolishes all of that un-American sophistry with his clean-cut utterances. He brings us back to the solid footing of our ancient rights, speaking the language of liberty which we learned in its perfection in the Constitution of the United States.

Americans, indeed, should be exceedingly thankful to Judge Kerrigan.

A Land of Opportunity

The life story of the new president of the American Bankers' Association, Melvin A. Traylor, of Chicago, contains a number of inspirations and lessons.

Born forty-eight years ago into poverty, he earned his first wages as a clerk in a small-town grocery store.

But note this: He did NOT spend his nights in a poolroom or loafing on a street corner. He STUDIED.

He wanted to become a lawyer, and he did. But before this he had herded mules and driven hogs. He also practiced politics and held small offices, thus learning nature (animal and human).

He started in the banking business in a small town in Texas twenty-one years ago. And because he knew law, people and crops, he rose rapidly.

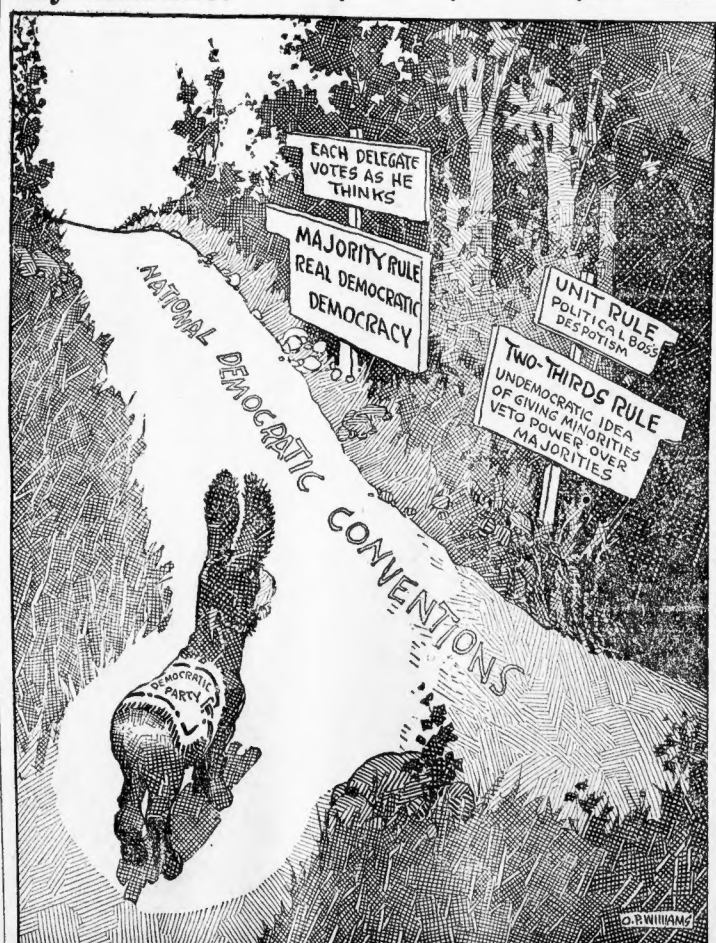

His first big jump came in six years. It made him vice-president of a stockyard bank in St. Louis. Three years later he went to the presidency of a similar bank in Chicago. Now he is head of the powerful First National of Chicago and of the nation's banking association.

Suppose he had been born to wealth and its conventions. He might have come through, for he possesses ambition, energy and ability. But it would have been a hazard.

Say what you will, this is still the world's best home of opportunity. Nothing keeps down a boy who wills to rise and is ready to work and study.

Why Hesitate?

By O. P. Williams

THE latest report is that certain influential Democrats are counseling caution in the movement to repeal the two-thirds and unit rules. It is not caution which the Democratic party needs, but the courage to be democratic.

SPELLING TWISTS IN ENGLISH

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE English language probably presents more difficulties in spelling than does any other.

The old-fashioned spelling bee perhaps has gone out of style, but spelling is still an accomplishment to be desired.

There is a sort of spelling instinct, or spelling consciousness, by which one is able to recognize instantly the correct or incorrect spelling of words. This probably comes from practice.

Ernest Horn, of Iowa State University, and E. J. Ashbaugh, of Ohio State University, have prepared a list of words which, according to Dr. Horn's investigation of writing vocabulary, maintain a spelling difficulty of fifty per cent. or more for eighth grade pupils.

For those who like that sort of thing some selections from this list are here made:

advisability	melancholy
amunition	negligent
achievement	partisan
attendants	plausible
competitive	privileged auxiliary	reckoned
brunette	sandwich
chorus	soothe
congregation	shocked
crepe-de-chino	terrific detritum	staid
construe	surety
epoch	transferred
girline	usable
eligible	yeast
experiences	amiable
laurel	bosom
	corporations
